

About Ryerson (NYSE: RYI)

Ryerson is a processor and distributor of metals with operations in the United States, Mexico, Canada and China. The company serves a variety of industries, including customers making products or equipment for the commercial ground transportation, metal fabrication and machine shops, industrial machinery and equipment, consumer durables, HVAC, construction, food processing, agriculture, as well as oil and gas. Founded in 1842, Ryerson is headquartered in the United States and employs approximately 3,400 employees in around 100 locations.

Leadership

- Edward J. Lehner, President and Chief Executive Officer
- Erich Schnauffer, Chief Financial Officer
- Mike Burbach, President, North-West Region
- Kevin Richardson, President, South-East Region
- Leong Fang, Executive Vice President-Operations and Chief Executive Officer, Asia
- Mark Silver, Executive Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary

Locations

Ryerson's extensive service center network includes around 100 locations across the United States, as well as in Canada, Mexico and China, strategically located to serve customers. Ryerson is headquartered in Chicago.

Products

Ryerson offers more than 65,000 varieties of products in stainless steel, aluminum, carbon and alloy steel in all shapes and sizes, including coil/sheet, plate, bar tube and structural shapes

- Long products - Bar, tube and pipe, Ryerson long products are offered in a wide range of shapes, sizes and material grades and can be processed to fit customers' specifications.
- Plate products - From heat treatable to precision cast, Ryerson plate products come in a variety of widths and grades to meet customers' needs. Complemented by a wide range of processing services, Ryerson can deliver a finished or near-finished part.
- Sheet and coil – Ryerson offers sheet and coil in a wide-range of thicknesses and widths to complement its in-house processing capabilities, including cut-to-length, slitting, precision blanking, shearing, polishing and more.

To view Ryerson's complete stock list, visit www.ryerson.com or download the mobile stock list app from the Apple App store through Google Play.

Services

Ryerson's processing and fabrication services encompasses everything from simple, cut-to-length orders to complex, painted and welded assemblies. In addition, through the company's just-in-time delivery program, Customers receive their order on-time whether it's needed next-day, next week or next month.

Industries Served

Ryerson serves customers of all sizes from a wide-range of industries, including customers making products or equipment for the commercial ground transportation, metal fabrication and machine shops, industrial machinery and equipment, consumer durables, HVAC, construction and more.

History

Founded in Chicago by Joseph T. Ryerson in 1842, Ryerson is one of Chicago's oldest companies. Its storied history includes brushes with the Great Chicago Fire in 1871 and a ride on the Titanic. Visit the "Our History" page on www.ryerson.com to learn more.

Ryerson Companies

Ryerson's integrated service center network includes several acquisitions. Together, they enhance Ryerson's processing capabilities, expand its geographic presence and support the company's strategic focus on long products and plate processing:

- Fay Industries, Inc
- SFI-Gray
- Singer Steel
- Southern Tool Steel, LLC
- Texas Steel Processing
- Turret Steel
- Wilcox Steel